

Georges Clemenceau

Wanted Germany to pay for reparations to rebuild areas of their country badly affected by the war.

Wanted revenge for all the lives lost.

Wanted to weaken Germany so it could never attack again.

Wanted the Germans far away from its borders to provide the citizens with security.

David Lloyd George

Wanted to avoid harsh punishment because Germany could try to seek revenge.

Wanted to keep Germany economically strong for trading.

Wanted some of the former German colonies.

Wanted naval supremacy, avoiding free navigation of the seas.

Woodrow Wilson

Wanted to start playing a more active role in international affairs.

Wanted a fair peace to avoid future wars.

Wanted to set an international organization that could handle issues between countries.

Wanted self-determination of peoples and ethnic groups.