

Listen again and fill-in the blanks

Speaker 1

My hobby can be very dangerous because, er, lots of things could ____ _____. There's always the danger of, like, avalanches or rock falls and of course, if you fall, you could get seriously injured. But it's so exciting I don't _____ the risks – it's worth it! Whenever I'm ice climbing, I really feel... I really feel alive. I go as often as I can. Anyway, I'm an experienced climber and I've done loads of training, so this reduces the level of risk.

Speaker 2

I'm not a thrill seeker at all – I don't want to put my life ____ _____. A few years ago, er, some friends convinced me to go white-water rafting. The organisation was very professional and obviously, you know, _____ all the necessary _____, but I still found it absolutely terrifying. We _____ _____ at one point and someone fell out of the raft. I've never been so scared in my life. I would never do it again!

Speaker 3

I guess I've done this about er, 20 times now. It's an incredible experience, especially for me because I don't think of myself as a thrill seeker. I don't do things like this normally, but I love sharks and I really wanted to get up close to them. You need to do a few hours, um, scuba training before you can go down, and the dive operators, they _____ you _____ the sharks and their behaviour and everything beforehand. In the dive cage you can watch them ____ _____. You can't _____ with wild animals like this.

Speaker 4

I would never go bungee jumping or paragliding or anything like that, but I do like an adrenaline rush. I love going on extreme rides at funfairs, so I guess I am a thrill seeker in, um, my own way. It's silly really but I go as often as I can and I love every minute of it. There's very little risk as all the machinery is checked very thoroughly. The only problem is I always spend a lot of money!
