Rosa's Problem

Topic: Community and Housing

Two months ago three young men moved next door to Rosa and her children. The men stay up late, play loud music and have lots of parties. The walls of the building are thin and Rosa and her children can't sleep because their neighbors make so much noise. She is afraid to knock on their door and complain to them because they drink a lot and are not very polite.

Rosa called the landlord, but he didn't do anything. Rosa is very unhappy. She is always tired when she wakes up in the morning. She doesn't want to move because the apartment is near her children's school, hear the bus stop, and hear her job. What can she do?

Ask Anita!

Dear Anita,

My wife and I are planning to travel to Japan in a few months and we are both very excited about it. We have our suitcases, passports, and a long list of places to visit and things to do. However, we can't agree on one thing. My wife wants us to join a tour group. In her opinion, it will be more fun to travel with other people and she thinks that without a tour guide we might get lost. But, in my opinion, we will probably see more things and have more fun if we just take a map, a phrase book and travel by ourselves. Who do you think is right: my wife or me?

Dear Anita,

I'm seventeen years old and my best friends and I want to backpack around Europe for the summer. We plan to stay in hostels, so it won't be too expensive. But my parents are worried that it's too dangerous – they worry that we'll have problems with different cultures and customs and maybe even pickpockets. They want me to wait until I'm older before I travel, but my friends are going this summer, with me or without me. What do you think, Anita?

----Mary

Dear Anita,

I work at MHS Consulting Group, and I am going to travel to United States and work there for one month. Let me tell you it is going to be my first trip on a plane, so I am nervous. Moreover, I am taking an English course at INA, and I can take the English course from there (online), but I don´t know if my teacher is going to allow me to do it. I am very worried because I need my job, but I don´t want to fail my English course. Anita, I am worried….Oh my God…my first trip, my job… and ….my English course!!! What could I do Anita?

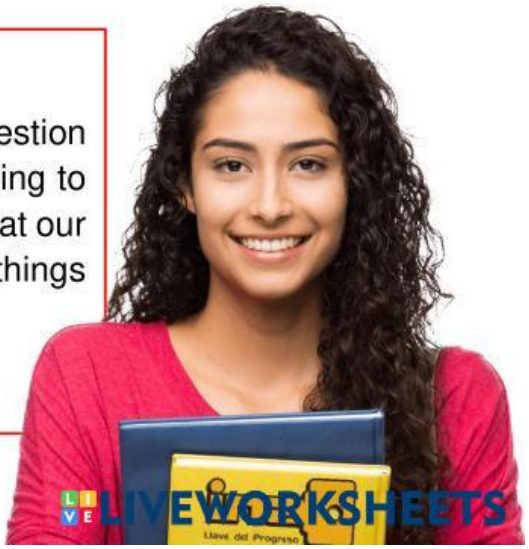

----Jeremy

Dear Anita,

Our English teacher (at INA) asked us an interesting question yesterday. He asked us to imagine that a friend was coming to visit us from another country and to choose three things that our friend could buy to take home as souvenirs. What three things would you suggest, Anita?
