Where is it possible to drive from Rome to Moscow, Madrid, Paris, Vienna, and Stockholm without going to Europe? The answer is in the state of Maine

Throughout the United States, there are many towns and cities that have been named after not only European cities but other countries as well, such as China, Poland, Norway, Sweden, and Denmark. Just how many New World place names are recycled Old World names has never been tallied, but one researcher found forty-one Londons, fifty-six Berlins, twenty-four Dublins, thirty-two Athensens, and twenty-seven Moscows, among others!

Reasons for European place names differ. Some were named in memory of settlers' former homes, others in honor of historic events. Some names were given by mistake. For instance, the people of Moscow, Kansa, wanted to name their city after the explorer Moscoso. They shortened his name to Mosco and an official in Washington, thinking the Kansas couldn't spell, added a "w".
