V. Read the passage and tick True or False.

It's important for teenagers to feel a sense of belonging and acceptance from their peers. Friendships can be a network of great support and can offer protection against negative peer relationships such as bullies. Learning positive friendship skills can help them socially so they feel happier and more confident. So it's good for your child's happiness to be a great friend to someone and to have a group of good friends supporting them.

It's also important for parents to understand and respect that, during their teenage years, their child is figuring out who they are beyond the family. Shared interests, attitudes, social struggles and being in circumstances that may resemble their own are some of the reasons young people will reach out and find comfort in close connections with friends. These connections can help their child learn about trust, respect, acceptance and intimacy, which will be important concepts for them to understand as they enter adulthood.
