

But Raoul and Emma weren't in Sydney, Australia. They were in Sydney, Nova Scotia, a small town in south-east Canada!

But it was a 24-hour journey by plane and tickets were very expensive.

They showed their tickets to a woman in the information desk. Raoul asked, 'When is our next flight?'

On 4th August they arrived at Heathrow airport. They checked in and waited for the plane to leave.

After only an hour the plane landed. They looked out of the window. It was a very small airport!

So, Raoul and Emma looked for cheap tickets on the internet. They booked two tickets to Sydney.

Last April two British teenagers, Raoul and Emma, wanted to go to Australia for their summer holiday.

Six hours later they landed at a big airport and changed planes. The new plane was very small and Emma was worried.

The woman was surprised. 'The next flight? This is the end of your journey. You're in Sydney.'