

Noun or Verb?

Sometimes the same word can be a noun or a verb, depending on how it is used in a sentence. Study the examples using the word dance:

In this sentence:

I dance every day in my room.

The dance will be on Saturday night.

The word dance is a verb

noun

Read each sentence below. On the line beside it, write whether the word in bold is a noun or a verb.

1 I dream every night.

2 I had a dream that I was flying.

3 There will be a fight after school.

4 The boys fight in the street.

5 Never drink water from a dirty pond.

6 The water served me the most delicious drink.

7 Don't kiss the baby. She is sound asleep.

8 The boy asked if he could give her a kiss on the cheek.

9 My sister gave me a strange look.

10 Those leather boots look very expensive.
