Choosing Fruits at the Market

Emily and her mom went to the market early on Saturday. They needed fruits for the week. The market was busy and smelled sweet.

First, they picked red and green apples. Emily liked the shiny ones, and her mom chose firm ones.

Next, they chose bananas that were just turning yellow. They were perfect for snacks.

Then, they found heavy oranges with bumpy skin. They would be good for juice.

After that, they got purple grapes that were plump and fresh.

Lastly, they picked a big watermelon that sounded hollow when tapped.

With their basket full, they went home excited to wash and eat their fruits.
