Eleanor Roosevelt's Favorite Things

Read the article below.

Mrs. Roosevelt was down-to-earth in the White House kitchen. She prided herself on coming up with seven-and-a-half-cent meals that were more appropriate during the Great Depression. She was also known to whip up her own scrambled eggs, which she and FDR thoroughly enjoyed.

What was Eleanor Roosevelt's favorite food?

Steak	Chicken	Scrambled Eggs

Read the quote below.

"This is a tea strainer that I loved to use. It was one of my most important possessions. I made tea at least once daily. I took this with me during my husband's presidency to the White House."

What was Eleanor Roosevelt's favorite thing?

Tea Cup	Tea Strainer	Cereal Bowl

Read the quote below.

"I loved to dance. Many of my friends said that I was an excellent dancer."

What was Eleanor Roosevelt like to do?

dance	sleep	read

Read the quote below.

"While attending school in England, I played field hockey on the varsity team. I was a very good player."

What sport did Eleanor Roosevelt play?

basketball	baseball	field hockey

Read the quote below.

"My favorite color is blue."

What was Eleanor Roosevelt's favorite color?

yellow	blue	red

Read the quote below.

My favorite song was the hymn "Brighten the Corners Where you Are."

What was Eleanor Roosevelt's favorite song?

"One Dance"	"Brighten the Corners Where you Are"	"Come Together"

Go to this website to see the food served in the Roosevelt White House:https://www.tasteofhome.com/collection/eleanor-roosevelts-seven-and-a-half-cent-meals/

The food was so bad because it was the Great Depression and Eleanor Roosevelt insisted that the White House cut spending too. She said that White House meals should cost no more than 7 ½ cents.

Why did the food in the Roosevelt White House look so bad?

Eleanor liked that kind of food.	It was the Depression and she wanted to cut spending in solidarity with regular Americans.	The Chef was bad at his job.

LIVEWORKSHEETS