

1. Which approach starts with a general rule and then applies it to specific examples?
2. Which approach starts with specific examples and then tries to find a general rule?
3. Which drilling works backwards to front ?
4. Which drilling technique works forward?
5. Which substitution requires students imagining a situation and thinking of suitable questions?