Getting Enough Sleep

Sleep is more important than you (0) thinking. It allows the body to rest in order to prepare it for the next day (9) and many children these days don't get enough sleep. Not every (10) children is the same. Some need more sleep than others. Children aged five to twelve need between nine and twelve hours of sleep every night. Without enough sleep, they would feel tired and their body may not (11) grew well. Here are some ways for children to sleep well. One of them (12) was to go to bed and wake up at the same time every day. This helps their body to get used to it. Another way is to not do exercises just before (13) go to bed. Exercise should be done earlier in the day to (14) helped sleep better. Children should use the bed only for sleeping - not for doing homework, reading, playing games or talking (15) with the phone. Last but not least, children should stop having worries that are keeping (16) us from sleeping. In short, getting enough sleep is very important for their health.

Internet Best Practices

The Internet is fun and useful, but can also be dangerous, no matter how safe you feel while using it. Your email addresses, phone numbers, and health records are all over the web. Bank Negara recommends internet best practices to keep your details safe.

First, use a unique password when creating your account. Make sure to include a mix of numbers, and letters, both uppercase and lowercase. It is harder to remember, but it will keep your information much safer.

In addition, always sign out once you are finished. Some sites hold important information, like your bank account or credit card number. Your details could get stolen, and you will be in trouble.

If your personal details are stolen, you should lodge a report at Bank Negara. You can call 0326988044 or email to bnktelelink@bnk.gov.my from Monday to Friday.

A Good Habit to Have in Life

My grandmother would always keep her money in a cookie tin and remind us about the importance of saving money. Every time, my siblings and I just nodded our heads and never listened to her advice. In fact, how I wished I could pick up this good habit at a younger age.

I only started saving money during my teenage years. I was 14 years old back then. I collected my coins and put them in a small accessory box. It took me months to save up for a new bicycle. When I was 17, I entered a writing contest and got the first prize of RM500. Then, I planned to open a savings account as I wouldn't want to spend it on electronic items.

Last week, my mother took me to a few banks. Initially, Junbank seemed to be a better choice. I thought it would be more convenient since it was the nearest to our house. I realised I could go online banking if I wanted to. My mother then asked me to consider Koibank, which offered the highest rate of interest in town. It did not take me long to make the best decision of my life. I definitely chose the latter. I wanted a better return.

So far, I have RM1500 in my account. I usually spend on workbooks for my revisions. I hope to save more money and used it for my college fees later on. Saving is essential in one's life. It is never too late to start saving money!

Public Speaking Skills for Teens

Public speaking is a skill that you must learn as it will give you an advantage in the future.

Public speaking is a lot more than just talking, though. For many of you, it is not a skill that you are born with. But, that doesn't mean that you can't be a successful public speaker. (35) _____.

Firstly, no matter how anxious you are, remember that your audience is just other people. (36) _____. Your fear comes from being scared that you will make a fool of yourself. You are also uncomfortable as the centre of attention.

Let's talk about preparation. (37) _____. Practice saying your presentation out aloud. It's great to make notes, and you can use them when the time comes, but they should be more of a guide than a script.

When you are speaking, the way you carry yourself is important. (38) _____. Moving your hands and body a little when you speak helps keep your audience's attention.

(39) _____. Ask someone you trust to listen and give their honest opinion on your presentation. Don't rely on words such as "like" and "um." It's also a good idea to video yourself practising and count the times you use these words, so that you can avoid them when you present.

Finally, remember to keep the content simple and straight to the point. Using a visual aid like PowerPoint can help make your presentation more interesting. (40) _____. Your listeners will be distracted by that.

Public speaking is an important skill. You will use this skill in job interviews, when presenting your schoolwork, trying out for drama or sports, or even just meeting new people.
