An email about a smartphone

1) Email address

1) To: Andy144@gmail.com
2) Subject: My new smartphone

2) Email subject

3) Greeting

Dear/Hi/Hello...

4) Opening

How are you?/
How's everything?

3) Hi Andy,

4) How are you doing? Guess what! My brother told me that he would buy me a new smartphone for my birthday. What great news!

5) I'd like a smartphone to listen to music and watch movies. I'm going to ask my brother to get LO33 for me. It looks great and has a large screen. It doesn't have a lot of storage; however, its battery life is very long. It can last for 36 hours. Its also quite light, so I can easily bring it with me most of the time. The best thing is that it is not very expensive. It costs 435 dollars. I'm sure that my brother will buy it for me.

I can't wait to see you next Sunday on my birthday party.

6) See you soon,

Katie

5) Body

Use conjunctions (and, also, but, however, so...) to link information.

It has a big screen, and it looks beautiful.

It has a big screen. It also has beautiful look.

Its weight is high, but the battery life is really long.

Its weight is high. However, the battery life is really long.

It's not expensive, so I'm sure my dad will buy it for me.

6) Closing

See you soon,/
Bye for now,/
See you then.

Subject: New laptop!

Hi Sophie,

How are you doing? I'm writing to ask for your advice on laptops.

I need a new laptop because my current one was broken the other day. I'm quite keen on Zebook and MacPlus, but I don't really know which one to choose for my school projects. I like to have a lightweight computer with a big screen. The Zebook has a large screen, but it is quite heavy. MacPlus is much lighter than the Zebook, but I don't like the screen of MacPlus. It's rather small. Besides, I can only afford a laptop for $1,200. Unfortunately, both are expensive. What impresses me is their performance. They both have extended battery life and can last for 24 hours. Which one will be suitable for me?

Please write back soon,

Love,
Kathy

- 1 What happened to Kathy's old laptop? _____
- 2 Which laptop is heavier than the other? _____
- 3 Which laptop has a big screen? _____
- 4 How much can she afford for a laptop? _____
- 5 How long is the battery life of MacPlus? _____

b. Read the email reply. Write T (true), F (false) or DS (doesn't say).

Hi Kathy,

I'm glad to receive your email.

I think ThinkPod can be the right choice because it suits your need the most. ThinkPod is not very expensive, and you can totally afford it. It is also a lightweight laptop. But I don't think its screen size might meet what you expect. It is only 13 inches. It doesn't seem conformable for you. The brightness of the screen display is not very good but acceptable for schoolwork and entertainment. What really impresses me is its battery life. You might use it nonstop for up to sixteen hours. ZeBook is a good option, too. It shares similar features to ThinkPod. The only thing you need consider is the price. It is quite expensive.

I can't wait to see your new laptop.

Sophie

- 6 ThinkPod costs a lot of money. _____
- 7 The screen size of ThinkPod doesn't suit Kathy's need. _____
- 8 The display of ThinkPod is too bright to use. _____
- 9 ThinkPod has amazing battery life. _____
- 10 ThinkPod and ZeBook share the same features. _____
