

TRY SOMETHING NEW FOR 30 DAYS

Matt Cutts

VOCABULARY:
• be stuck in a rut	from the very beginning
• follow in the footsteps	to pursue something that someone else (often a family member) has already done
• turn out	to reach or come to a place, condition, or situation that was not planned or expected
• fly by	to stop doing or to stop having something
• end up	to understand someone or something, or to find the answer to something by thinking
• figure out	to try something, to make an attempt at doing something
• from scratch	(for time) to pass or go past quickly
• give it a shot	to happen in a particular way or to have a particular result
• give up	to become stuck in a mundane, non-changing pattern of life

A few years ago I felt like I was _____ in a rut so I decided to follow in the footsteps of the great American philosopher Morgan Spurlock and try something new for 30 days. The idea is actually pretty simple. Think about something you've always wanted to add to your life and try it for the next 30 days. It turns out 30 days is just about the right _____ of time to add a new habit or subtract a habit, like watching the news, from your life. There's a few things that I _____ while doing these 30-day challenges. The first was, instead of the months flying by, forgotten, the time was much more memorable. This was part of a challenge I ____ to take a picture every day for a month. And I remember exactly where I _____ and what I was doing that day. I also _____ that as I _____ to do more and harder 30-day challenges, my self-confidence _____. I went from desk dwelling computer nerd to the kind of guy who bikes to work for fun. Even last year I _____ up hiking up Mount Kilimanjaro, the highest mountain in Africa. I would never have been that adventurous before I started my 30-day challenges. I also _____ out that if you really want something badly enough, you can do anything for 30 days. Have you ever wanted to write a novel? Every November tens of thousands of people try to write their own 50,000-word novel, from scratch, in 30 days. It turns out all you have to do is write 1,667 words a day for a month. So I did. By the way, the secret is not to go to sleep until you've written your words for the day. You might be sleep-_____, but you'll finish your novel. Now, is my book the next great American novel? No, I wrote it in a month - it's awful! But for the rest of my life, if I meet John Hodgman at a TED party I don't have to say "I'm a computer scientist". No, no, if I want to, I can say "I'm a novelist". So here's one last thing I'd like to _____. I learned that when I made small, sustainable changes, things I _____ keep doing, they were more likely to stick. There's nothing wrong with big crazy challenges. _____, they're a ton of fun. But they're less likely to stick. When I _____ up sugar for 30 days, day 31 _____ like this. So here's my question to you. "What are you waiting for?" I guarantee you the next 30 days are going to pass whether you like it or not. So why not think about something you have always wanted to try and give it a shot for the next 30 days?