

In a quaint village, there lived a wise fortune teller named Madame Serena. One day, a young woman named Emily decided to visit Madame Serena, seeking guidance about _____ future.

Madame Serena welcomed her and asked. "Why do you want to know about your future?"...
"____ I know about my future, I will ____ able to change the things I don't want to happen," replied Emily.

"But if ____ change these things, ____ won't be part of your future."

Emily _____ about this for a few seconds and then said:

"You're right... But if I _____ about my future, I _____ be able to prepare for it."

Serena smiled: If I _____ you good news, what will you _____?"

"If _____ good news, I will be happy to _____ it."

"But will you ____ even more happy if it _____ you one day?"

Emily thought for _____: "Yes, I suppose so," she agreed.

"And _____ it's bad news?" asked the fortune teller.

"If it's bad news, I _____ start to prepare for it."

"But will you also start to worry if _____ know about it now?"

"Yes. I _____ I will worry even more." Emily said.

"And what if I tell you that the _____ is neither good nor bad?"

Now Emily was _____ to understand. She said: "If the news ____ neither good nor bad, I _____ do anything... I just will try to improve my life."

With a nice smile Madame Serena ask: "So are you _____ that you want to know about your future?"

"No. I have changed my _____. Thank you," Emily stood up to leave.

"That _____ be $25.00 please. Cash only," said the fortune teller.

Emily paid her _____ and went back to her family and friends. She never _____ to know about the future again!
