Being the oldest child is good. However, there are some bad things. There are mainly two bad things. One I lend something to my brother. For example, when I am using the TV I have to lend my brother the TV when he want's to use or else he might cry. You could say he's like a baby. The second bad thing is I have to take care of my brother. For example, when my brother was to drink something, I have to get it for him. To me he's like a king.

On the other hand, being the oldest child can cause some _____ situations. For example, when I am _____ a television program, I have to _____ the remote when my five year old brother wants to use it or else he might _____. He can act like a _____ baby. Secondly, since I am the big brother, I often have to _____ my brother. For example, when my brother wants a drink, I have to _____ it. To me, he's like a _____ king, and I am his servant.
