Dealing with stress at school can be challenging, but there are several ways to manage it. First, students should stay organized by creating a study schedule and breaking tasks into smaller steps. Taking short breaks during study sessions can also help the mind relax. Exercise is another excellent way to relieve stress, as physical activity boosts mood and energy. Additionally, talking to friends, teachers, or counselors can provide emotional support. Finally, getting enough sleep is essential, as a well-rested mind can focus better and handle pressure more effectively. By following these steps, students can reduce school-related stress and improve their well-being.

Question 22-24: Read the following text

The discovery of gravity is often linked to Sir Isaac Newton, an English scientist and mathematician. According to legend, Newton was sitting under a tree when an apple fell on his head. This event made him wonder why objects fall to the ground. He realized that a force must be pulling the apple down, and he called this force "gravity." Newton's studies showed that gravity not only makes objects fall, but it also keeps planets in orbit around the Sun. His work, called the Law of Universal Gravitation, explained how all objects are attracted to one another based on their mass and distance. Newton's discovery changed science forever and helped us understand how the universe works.

Fill each blank in the following sentences with ONE word from the text.
