Part 1: Reading comprehension. Read the following text and complete the exercises.

Story: From Rags to Riches

Once upon a time, there was a little boy named Sam who used to live in a small, rundown house on the outskirts of town. His family was very poor, and they would often struggle to put food on the table. Sam used to walk to school barefoot, dreaming of a better life. Every evening, he would help his mother sell vegetables at the local market. Despite their hardships, Sam always used to smile and believe that one day, things would change for the better.

Years later, Sam worked hard in school and earned a scholarship to a prestigious university. He would study late into the night and used to tell his friends about his dreams of becoming successful. After graduating, he started his own business and quickly became wealthy. Now, Sam used to be poor, but he often reflects on his past. He would give back to the community, helping children in need, just like he once was.
