

Let's place the adverb in the right box

Adverbs of intensity- modify adjectives or other adverbs. They are usually placed before the adjective, verb or adverb on which they modify.

STRONG	MEDIUM	WEAK

awfully

somewhat

completely

a bit

deeply

pretty almost

very extremely slightly

absolutely

fairly

a little

quite

quite

Do you like where you live?

A: Do you like where you live now?

B: I ¹ _____ like it, but it's not a ² _____ lively place. Don't get me wrong:
the people are ³ _____ friendly and they've welcomed us very warmly. We've just had to adapt ⁴ _____

To be honest, it's ⁵ _____ modern and characterless. I'm ⁶ _____ confident it'll get better with time as more people move in. But at the moment we're struggling ⁷ _____ to enjoy it.

1. housing
2. transportation
3. services
4. infrastructure
5. economic development
6. green spaces
7. urban planing

_____ is quite

I quite like the fact that _____ have/has quite an interesting

I don't quite understand why...

I find quite _____, but other people quite enjoy it.

I'm quite getting why people

If it's about _____ I'd say it /they i/are rather...

I don't particularly

.... is not particularly

It rather annoys me that ...