

Finding arguments for listening tasks

You will hear people talking in eight different situations. For questions 1-8, choose the best answer A, B or C.

- 1 You hear a restaurant manager talking about the cooks who work for him.

What does he say about them?

- A They dislike cleaning tasks.
- B They have a choice of jobs.
- C They help to decide the menu.

- 2 You hear a woman talking about a new book.

What does she particularly like about the book?

- A It is educational.
- B It is well organised.
- C It is enjoyable.

- 3 You hear the writer of a television soap opera being interviewed about the programme.

What will happen next in the story?

- A Someone will make an important decision.
- B Someone will go away unexpectedly.
- C Someone will learn the truth at last.

- 4 You hear part of a radio interview.

Who is speaking?

- A a taxi driver
- B a porter
- C a tourist guide

- 5 You hear a woman talking about how she keeps fit.

Why did she decide to take up line dancing?

- A She thought the pace would suit her.
- B She had heard about it on television.
- C She wanted to try exercising to music.

- 6 You overhear a conversation in a restaurant.

What does the woman think about the food she has just eaten?

A It was expensive.

B It was delicious.

C It looked wonderful.

7 You turn on the radio and hear a man talking.

What is he talking about?

A drawing pictures

B writing fiction

C composing music

8 You overhear a student phoning her parents.

What is her opinion of the place she is living in while at college?

A She is not sure she will have enough room to study.

B She has difficulty in working because of the noise.

C She does not get on well with her room-mates.

Underline or highlight the parts of the script that prove your answer:

1

As restaurant manager, I feel responsible for the quality of the food we serve. So, it's up to me to check the ingredients that have been delivered overnight to make sure they are of sufficient quality, and to produce a menu for the day. The cooks arrive at about ten a.m. to prepare lunch and I'll take them through the menu. Because lunch is concentrated over a short period of time it can get very busy and very hot. But unlike some kitchens, we tend to divide the jobs up according to who likes doing what, and that includes cleaning pots and pans and clearing the place before dinner.

2

It's a factual book, a chronicle of the twentieth century and it's wonderful. I mean it's terribly bitty and it's not going to give you a lot of information nor be good for school work. That's what's really nice about it. Here is a reference book which it is fun to dip in and out of. It's hardly going to help anyone write an essay and it avoids being geared to any school syllabus, unlike so much of what is published today. But for anyone who likes little details, you know, you can look up your date of birth, for example, and see what else happened then, it's a very good book.

3

Man: So, there've been some dramatic events in Victoria Street this past week, what with Mariela deciding not to marry Jason, and Stephen leaving home in the middle of a family row. Are next week's episodes as exciting?

Woman: Well, I can't give away the whole story, but I don't think you'll be disappointed! I can tell you that Stephen's mother is forced to tell her husband the secret she's been hiding for years, which leads to more fireworks and a few tears. And Jason refuses to accept Mariela's decision, so you're going to hear a lot more from him, and look out for some surprises there.

4

We get people to the taxis, that's the first priority, and to the trains. We make sure they get on early and get comfortable seats. These days many passengers have a lot of luggage and they want assistance with it. So, we provide a much-needed service. We even take people down to the Underground or to places in the surrounding streets. But the majority of users are airline passengers with a lot of bags and perhaps accompanied by elderly relatives, young children and so on. Obviously, they can't manage everything on their own.

5

I exercise in the form of dance. At one time, I did aerobics because exercise is more interesting with music, but I've since moved on to line dancing. It's less energetic, but I go three times a week. I run my own business, work hard, and it's just a way to cut off rather than watch television. It's also a challenge keeping up with the new steps. I think young people sometimes take exercise too far, get over-concerned with how they look, when they'll never be able to keep it up at that sort of pace. Whereas line dancing struck me as something I could sustain as part of my normal life.

6

Man: Well, what did you think of that, then?

Woman: Brilliant! I've never tasted anything like it! I wish you I'd tried this place sooner. I mean, I've been walking past it for years.

Man: Why didn't you?

Woman: Well, to be honest, I never thought I'd be able to afford it, but it's actually quite reasonable. Mind you, I think they could have tried a bit harder with the presentation. I think if food looks good on the plate you automatically expect it to taste good. Yours was okay, but I think they could have made more of an effort with mine.

7

In practical terms, the place I'm in doesn't matter too much. As long as I have the necessary tools, you know, pencil and paper and, of course, my keyboard. Once I'm started, I go over things again and again – must be very dull if anyone's listening. I change a few notes here and there, but basically, I tend to stick with an idea once I have it. I guess home's the best place in a way because there I'm relaxed enough to let my imagination flow and that's what you need to do, in order to produce a good piece ...

8

Well, I'm sharing with two other girls ... I know, it was supposed to be me and one other person, but there's a shortage of accommodation, apparently. Anyway, the room's rather cramped. But it's great. There've been three parties so far, and it's still the first week. It's an incredibly noisy place, with doors banging and people laughing and shouting till the small hours. Yes, I suppose we'll have to get down to work soon, though I don't know how we'll be able to, packed into that little space – none of us is very tidy ...