The image shows a tablet screen with a blog post. At the top of the screen is a navigation bar with a logo on the left and three links: 'Home', 'Profile', and 'Discover'. The logo consists of a green circle with a white letter 'B' and the words 'Blog Book' next to it. On the right side of the navigation bar is a green circular profile picture with a white letter 'A'. Below the navigation bar is the title of the blog post, 'A Parade in My Hometown', in bold black text. The main content of the blog post is a story written in black text. The story is divided into four paragraphs. The first paragraph describes the author's childhood experience of watching a parade on Independence Day. The second paragraph describes the first line of the parade, where people were dressed in unique costumes, including Indonesian heroes' costumes and local ghost costumes. The third paragraph describes the second line of the parade, where people marched in the second line, waving a mini Indonesian flag and singing the 'Hari Merdeka' song. The fourth paragraph describes the author's observation that many children rode their bicycles in the parade, decorated creatively. The story concludes with the author's desire to join the parade and their anticipation for the next week.

A Parade in My Hometown

When I was a child, I always waited for Independence Day. My father used to ask me to watch a parade together. We saw it from our front yard. I remember how attractive the parade was.

In the first line of the parade, I saw the people dressed up uniquely. Some people wore Indonesian heroes' costumes. Some others dressed like local ghosts. They were scary but they were funny, too.

Next, I remembered that a lot of people marched in the second line. They waved a mini Indonesian flag. They walked around the village and sang the 'Hari Merdeka' song. Their singing was accompanied by traditional instruments like angklung, suling, and rebana.

At last, I also saw that many children rode their bicycles in the parade. They decorated their bicycles creatively.

I always wanted to join the parade but I was too shy. Luckily, I have the chance to join a parade at my school next week. I am really looking forward to it.
