

Who is Moshik Roth?

Part One

1 If you ask most people what chefs do, the answer is easy: "They cook." The correct answer is not so easy. A chef's job is much more than just preparing meals and feeding people. Most chefs go to cooking school for years. A typical day for a chef is a lot of hard work. He plans the menu for the day. He makes sure there is enough salt, pepper, oil and lemon in the kitchen. After that, he goes to the market to buy the vegetables, fish and meat he needs for the day. When the other cooks arrive, he oversees<sup>1</sup> their work and prepares the main dishes. Many chefs also like to welcome their customers, shake their hands and make sure that they enjoy themselves.
