Types of Data

Use this table to classify the data cards

Categorical data	Discrete data	Continuous data
data that is grouped by characteristics	data that is counted	data that is measured
Example: Eye colour	Example: Number of pets	Example: Height of students

TYPES OF DATA

Cut out each question and place them into the correct group on the placemat

What type of pet do you have?	How many pets do you have?	How many years have you owned a pet?

How many phones are in your house?	What brand is your phone?	How big is the largest screen in your house?

What is your favourite food?	How many times do you eat your favourite food each week?	How much time does it take to make your favourite food?

How do you get to school?	How many doors are in your house?	How much time does it take to get to school?

What colour is your hair?	How many messages do you send in a day?	How tall are you?

How much time do you spend doing homework?	How many hours do you spend using electronics each day?	How many litres of water do you drink each day?