Electric cars are the future

If you are thinking of buying a new car soon, perhaps you should consider getting an electric car. In the last few years, electric cars have become more efficient, and they're now much cheaper to buy. So why should we switch to electric cars?

¹*In conclusion / First of all / Finally*, air pollution in our cities has become a serious problem over the past 50 years or so. Electric cars do not produce any CO₂ emissions and, as a result, they don't pollute the atmosphere. If we drive electric cars, this will significantly improve the quality of the air we breathe.

²*Firstly / Finally / Secondly*, electric cars are quieter than cars that use petrol or diesel. Today's cars and lorries cause a lot of noise pollution and this can make people feel very stressed.

³*Secondly / Finally / First of all*, they are cheaper to operate than conventional cars. The price of petrol is extremely high and the cost per kilometre of an electric car is much lower than a normal petrol or diesel car. In addition, it is more convenient to recharge your electric car at home than to drive to a petrol station to re-fuel.

⁴*In conclusion / First of all / In addition*, I would say that if we really care about the environment, we should all consider buying electric cars. They have improved a great deal in recent years and they will definitely be the vehicle of the future.

Read the essay again and tick (✓) the correct answer.

In the writer's opinion, ...

- a ☐ petrol cars are more efficient than electric cars
- b ☐ diesel cars are more environmentally friendly than electric cars
- c ☐ electric cars are better now than a few years ago
- d ☐ people should buy petrol cars in the future

Are the sentences true (T) or false (F)?

- 1 Electric cars are more expensive now than they were a few years ago.
- 2 Electric cars do not cause problems for the air we breathe.
- 3 Some people become stressed due to the noise caused by traffic.
- 4 It costs the same to operate electric cars and petrol cars.
- 5 It is more convenient to recharge an electric car at home than to drive to a petrol station.
