The United Nations International Children's Fund (or UNICEF) was founded in 1946 to provide emergency food and healthcare to children in countries that had been devastated by World War II. It is headquartered in New York City. It provides long-term humanitarian assistance to children and mothers in developing countries. UNICEF is currently focused on such problems as basic education and gender equality, child protection from violence, exploitation and abuse, and HIV/ AIDS. Its child protection programmes also aim at children who are vulnerable to these abuses when living without parental care. These children are at risk of death, poor physical and mental health, HIV infection, educational problems, and poor parenting skills later in life.

Right now, UNICEF is working to help the disabled children in provinces in Central Vietnam. It places a priority on finding out where children with disabilities live and what their needs are. It will also work to meet disabled children's immediate needs: help build more centers for disabled children, give them access to medical care and make sure they receive aids like wheelchairs. Half of all children with disabilities are illiterate and most of them do not finish primary school. For the long term, UNICEF is already working with the Vietnamese government to fully integrate those with disabilities into society and to improve the rights of all disabled children.

Read the following passage and mark the letter A, B, C, or D on your answer sheet to indicate the correct answer to each of the following questions from 36 to 40.

The status of women in Japan is complex and cannot be characterized in simple terms. Slowly, there is a growing number of professional women and professional women's associations. More women continue to work after getting married and having children. However, many companies have separate programmes for women, usually non-career development, and follow practices that would be considered discriminatory in other societies. For a typical couple, the female spouse is still generally expected to do all the cleaning, cooking, and other chores, whether she is working or not. Single women are said to be enjoying their lives, spending much money on traveling abroad and shopping. Housewives are active in networking themselves for various objectives, for example, volunteer activities, community services, recycling activities, study groups, and many others. The traditional Japanese value of "good wife, good mother" is changing.

Unlike other countries where a couple is the usual social unit, in Japan, it is typical for only the husband to be invited to business gatherings or to weddings for company employees. Exceptions are frequently made for foreign visitors depending on the occasion, but wives should not take their exclusion as a personal insult.

Question 36: What would be the best title for the passage?

- A. The Changing Role of Women in Japanese Society
- B. Cultural Norms and Gender Expectations in Japan
- C. Gender Discrimination in Japanese Workplaces
- D. The Empowerment of Japanese Housewives

- A. Women in Japan are actively participating in professional women's associations.
- B. Many companies in Japan have separate programs for women.
- C. The traditional Japanese value of "good wife, good mother" is changing.
- D. Single women in Japan enjoy spending money on traveling abroad and shopping.

Question 39: What does the passage suggest about the inclusion of wives in business gatherings or company events in Japan?

- A. Wives are always considered an essential part of business gatherings and events.
- B. Wives are almost always invited to accompany their husbands to such events.
- C. Wives are typically excluded from business gatherings and company events.
- D. Wives are sometimes invited to business gatherings, depending on the occasion.

Question 40: The word "their" in paragraph 2 refers to _____.

- A. wives
