

Now read the article and answer the questions .

1. The best way to go from Moscow to Beijing is on the        1        Siberian Railway, which is the        2        railway in the world. The journey is one of the greatest travel adventures. It's the journey that nearly everyone wants to go on, perhaps because it's        3        said to be the longest you can make on a single train. The        4        of the three trans-Siberian routes, between Moscow and Vladivostok, covers 9,258km.
2. On this train, you will travel across half of the globe , and pass through eight time        5        to reach the furthest edge of one        6        country. Your journey will leave you with unique        7        and the feeling of experiencing something        8        . It will change the way you see time and distance. Days slide by as different passengers meet, have drinks and meals together, and form friendships as the train rolls on, stops for        9        , and takes on new passengers. Outside, you will view the scenic Ural        10        , the great Siberian plains, the bottomless Lake Baikal, the steppes of the Mongolian nomads, and the easternmost Russian city, Vladivostok, before crossing the border into China.