

THE SELFISH GIANT

A flower puts its head up out of the groud, when it sees it's still winter, it goes back under the ground.

The sprint is here at last! the Giant cries. This is wonderful!

The children are very happy, because there are beautiful flowers in the Giant's garden. They love playing in it.

A young boy is standing in a corner of the Giant's garden because he can't climb into the tree.

The Giant doesn't understand why the Spring doesn't come into his garden.

The Giant builds a wall around the garden with a notice that says "No Children"

The trees begin to blosson and move their arms because the children are back

The Autumn brings nothing to the Giant because she hates selfish people.
