

Join the sentences using the connectors: therefore and thus

Examples:

It is raining.
The streets get wet.

1. It is raining; therefore, the streets get wet.
It is raining. Therefore, the streets get wet.

It is raining; thus, the streets get wet.
It is raining. Thus, the streets get wet.

The battery is dead.
The car will not start.

Both sides played well.
No winner was declared.

Beef burgers are fattening
They should be eaten in moderation.

Our sales have been good this year.
We'll be able to get larger bonuses than expected.

Eric was not a fan of loud music.
He always tried to find a quiet spot in the house to read.