Summer Holidays
by Tom Summers

Two years ago, my family and I went on holiday to London. My parents and I loved it, but my sister Julie didn't like it very much. She was only five. She got tired quickly and she didn't want to get up early in the mornings.

On the first day, we went sightseeing around the city on a red London bus. We saw a lot of famous places: the Tower of London, the Houses of Parliament and St Paul's Cathedral. In the evening, we went on a boat trip on the River Thames.

We did a lot of other things too. Mum loved London's famous department stores and spent a lot of money there. Dad spent his money in bookshops. I get bored in shops, so I didn't buy anything.

We visited some great museums. The Science Museum was fun, but the Natural History Museum was better. It had dinosaurs!

One day, we went to Hyde Park. We fed the ducks in the lake and we went cycling. Unfortunately, it was hot and my face and arms were red at the end of the day!

On our last day, my sister got lost. We were walking in Oxford Street when Mum said to Dad: 'Where's Julie? I thought she was with you!'

'And I thought she was with you!' said Dad.

Luckily, we found her quickly. She was looking at some toys in a shop window ten metres behind us!
