

“If I were a rich man...”

Interviewer: Winning the lottery is something many people dream about, imagining how their lives would change overnight. But what would people really do if they suddenly had millions of dollars? Today, we asked a few individuals how they would spend their winnings. Let's hear their thoughts!

Amy: ____ For me, it's the smartest way to use that kind of money. I believe that property is one of the best ways to ensure long-term financial security. I would buy a few different homes: one for myself, maybe a vacation house, and the rest I'd rent out. With rental income coming in regularly, I'd never have to worry about running out of money.

Brandon: ____ I've always wanted to give back, so if I had the chance, I'd donate a large portion to causes I care about. I'd start by donating to organizations that help the homeless, as well as charities that provide education for underprivileged children. I'd also set up a foundation so I could continue to give money to different causes over time.

Cecily: ____ I would spend it visiting every corner of the globe! I would start by planning a long trip around the world. There are so many places I want to visit: safaris in Africa, the Great Wall of China, the beaches of Thailand, and ancient ruins in South America. I'd love to experience different cultures, meet new people, and see all the wonders the world has to offer.

Dave: ____ I've always wanted to open my own café or maybe a small boutique. I've always liked the idea of being my own boss and running a business I'm passionate about. With the lottery money, I wouldn't have to worry about loans or start-up costs. Building something from the ground up and watching it succeed would be so rewarding for me.

Estrella: ____ I think the best way to use the money would be to help the people I love. The first thing I would do is make sure my family is taken care of. I'd pay off my parents' mortgage, help my siblings with college fees, and maybe even set up a trust fund for my nieces and nephews.

Frank: ____ I'd save most of the money and keep working. For me, winning the lottery wouldn't mean living extravagantly. I'd put the money in savings or investments and just continue with my life as usual. Maybe I'd treat myself to a few small luxuries, but nothing too big. I think it's important to stay grounded and not let money change who you are. Plus, I enjoy working, and I wouldn't want to give that up. Having the money would be nice, but it wouldn't change my values or the way I live.

Interviewer: As you can see, everyone has different ideas about how they would spend a fortune. Each person's choice reflects their own values and dreams. Whether it's investing, donating, or treating themselves, there's no wrong answer when it comes to such a life-changing event!

Complete the text of the interview with the missing sentences.

1. For me, starting my own business would be the most exciting part of winning the lottery.
2. Charity would be my main focus.
3. Even if I won the lottery, I don't think I'd change my lifestyle much.
4. If I won the lottery, I would definitely invest in real estate.
5. I've always dreamed of traveling, and with lottery money, I could finally do it.
6. I would focus on my family.