

Listen to the audio as you read along with the text. Then, answer the questions to check your understanding.

Anna is a teacher. She works in a big school in her city. Every day, she teaches English, math, and science to young children. Her job is difficult because some students need extra help, but she loves it. She likes helping her students learn new things and seeing them improve. Sometimes, she stays late at school to prepare her lessons or talk to parents about their children. Anna says her job is tiring, but it is also very rewarding.

Her brother, John, works in an office downtown. He is an accountant and spends most of his day working with numbers and financial reports. John thinks his job is boring because he doesn't like sitting at a desk all day. He often says that he would like to do something more creative, like photography. However, John continues working as an accountant because it pays well, and he wants to save money for his family.

Their parents, Mary and Peter, are doctors. They work in a big hospital near their home. Mary is a pediatrician who helps children, and Peter is a surgeon who performs operations. Their job is very stressful because they work long hours, and they have to make important decisions every day. Even though it is stressful, Mary and Peter enjoy helping people feel better. They say that being doctors is not just a job but also a responsibility to their community.

Anna has a close friend named Lisa. Lisa is a graphic designer who works from home. She creates designs for websites, advertisements, and magazines. Lisa says her job is very interesting because she can use her imagination to make beautiful and creative projects. Anna admires Lisa's work and often tells her that her job must be exciting. Lisa loves what she does, but she sometimes feels lonely because she doesn't work in an office with other people.

In the evenings, Anna, John, Mary, and Peter often talk about their jobs during dinner. They discuss their challenges and what they like about their work. They agree that every job has good and bad parts, but what matters most is finding something you enjoy doing. Anna thinks it's important to appreciate the work people do, whether it's creative, practical, or something in between.

1. What does Anna do?
2. Where does Anna work?
3. What does John do?
4. Does John like his job?
5. What do Mary and Peter do?
6. Where do Mary and Peter work?
7. What does Lisa do?
8. Does Lisa work in an office?
9. How does Anna feel about Lisa's job?
10. Do Anna and her family talk about their jobs?