

I am Oliver, and this is my sister. Her name is Lily and she's only 3! She had a birthday party yesterday. It was a great party, but her friends were unhappy. I soon realized why: Lily was rude. She didn't use polite words like "Please" or "Thank you."

She even wanted a piece of cake from one of her friends by saying, "Hey, you! Look! Give me that cake!"

I told her, "Lily, you are being very rude to your friends." This made Lily feel sad because she didn't understand how to be kind. I said to her, "You should say 'Please' when you ask for something and 'Thank you' when you receive your presents. Also, please apologize to your friends." Then, Lily apologized to her friends, saying, "I am sorry for being rude. Please come and try the cake. It's delicious." Everyone then enjoyed their cake and had fun together. Finally, Lily and her friends were all very happy."
