

Beside each number there is an adjective. Fill in the blanks with either the given adjective or the adverb derived from it. (In the necessary Degree of Comparison)

- (good) Diana always does her homework _____. She is one of the _____ students in the class.
- (careful) Be _____ with this bag. There is a vase in it. – Ok, I'll carry it very _____.
- (late) Does Dasha always arrive _____ to school? – No, Sometimes Makar comes _____ than her.
- (easy) The exercise was quite _____ for nearly everyone in the group. But the ones who didn't revise the topic couldn't do it _____.
- (happy) We were laughing _____ while watching the film. I am really _____ that you brought the film for the evening. I think I am the _____ person in the family now.
- (hard) It was a really _____ work. We tried _____, but it took us too much time to finish it.
- (awful) I don't like Picasso's portraits, I think, he paints _____ and uses _____ mixture of colours.
- (angry) The teacher was _____ with the class for bad results of the test. He looked and talked _____.
- (good) Mary's English is _____ than Stephen's. She speaks really _____.
- (polite) Sophie is always _____ when she talks to people. She can speak _____ in any situation.
- (slow) Your granny walks very _____. And she is always so _____ in answering questions!
- (quick) The dog made a _____ movement and they ran _____ to the door.
- (complete) She was _____ tired and couldn't understand anything.
- (absolute) Of course, he was _____ right about it. Nobody could argue with _____ truth.
- (beautiful) The girl didn't only sing _____, but also was _____ dressed in a long dark blue dress that made her even _____ than before.
- (great) After visiting Russia, the opinion of the tourists usually changes _____. They finally understand that Russia is a _____ country not only in size, but also in its people. And I am sure that it will become even _____ in future.
- (cheap) They said that it was the shop where I could buy the shoes _____. And I was surprised that even the _____ shoes looked quite decent.