

Fill in each blank with one most suitable word

IS APPEARANCE IMPORTANT?

Appearance plays a significant in many areas of life. First impressions often depend on how someone, especially in situations where people meet for the first For, in job interviews, dressing professionally can show that you are serious and well-prepared. Similarly, in social situations, people often feelconfident when they are happy withappearance. Feelingcan help them connect with others more easily.

However, it's important to remember that appearance is not thefactor that defines a person. Inner qualities like kindness, honesty, and intelligence are farimportant in the long run. These traits are what make people reliable friends, good colleagues, and caring family members.instance, someone may look attractivefail to maintain strong relationships if they lack empathy or respect for others.

Moreover, focusing too much on appearance can leadproblems. Some people may feel pressure to meet unrealistic beauty standards,can harm their self-esteem. Others might judge people unfairly based onlylooks, ignoring the qualities that truly matter.

In conclusion, while appearance can bein certain situations, it shouldovershadow the value of a person's inner character. True beauty comes from being a goodand treating othersrespect.