- B9. Most of us who say we value honesty, yet we are all dishonest occasionally. There are B10. many reasons why you should always try to be honest. To begin with, lying is both morally
B11. wrong because it can misleads people. Lies create distance and destroy relationships.
B12. For this reason, lying to someone you love which is particularly unacceptable. At the same
B13. time, it may be preferable not to tell the whole truth. For instance, when do we want to avoid
B14. hurting someone's feelings, we might agree that a friend's new haircut is 'nice', or thank you
B15. someone for a 'lovely' gift, regardless of how we have actually feel about these things. What is
B16. more, people sometimes lie or make up lots stories to avoid upsetting someone vulnerable.
B17. Of course, few honesty is generally the best policy, but there are times when lying can make B18. things easier enough for people. So it's better to tell a harmless white lie than to hurt someone.
