The Kite

Josh got a kite for his birthday, but he did not know how to fly a kite.

"Take it outside and run really fast," his mother told him. "It will just float up into the air."

Josh did what his mother said, but he was just dragging the kite on the ground behind him. Then an enormous gust of wind came up. It lifted the kite into the air. Josh held onto the string and looked up at the colorful kite, bobbing and dancing in the air.

"You did it!" his mother said, coming outside.

"I let the wind do all the work!" Josh said.
