Passage 8: The Civil War

The Civil War began in 1861 because the United States was divided over slavery and states' rights. The southern states, called the Confederacy, wanted to keep slavery and form their own country. The northern states, known as the Union, fought to keep the country together.

Important leaders like Abraham Lincoln and Robert E. Lee shaped the war. Abraham Lincoln, the president, wanted to end slavery and preserve the Union. Robert E. Lee was a skilled general who led the Confederate Army. Key battles like Gettysburg and the surrender at Appomattox Court House decided the war's outcome.

The Civil War ended in 1865 at Appomattox Courthouse, but it caused great suffering. The South was devastated, and many families were torn apart. Despite the hardships, the war ended slavery and set the stage for a new chapter in American history.
