WORKING FOR AN AIRLINE

Nicola Peet left school at eighteen, went to college and then worked at a local airport. After nine months, she went to work for Saudi Arabian Airlines and then she joined British Airways as an air hostess. Four years later, she got her present job as a manager.

This is what she told us about her job:

'My office is at Heathrow Airport, but I spend 60% of my time in the air. I teach air hostesses and help them with any problems. I also go to lots of meetings.

My hours are usually from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. but sometimes I work from 1 p.m. to 9 p.m. At work, the first thing I do is check plane times on my computer and then I speak with some of the air hostesses.

Sometimes I go on long flights to check how the air hostesses are doing. That's my favourite part of the job, but I like office work, too. Travelling can be hard work. When I get back from a long journey, all I can do is eat something and then go to bed! I don't earn much money, but I'm happy with British Airways and want to stay there and continue to travel.'

MY FIRST SUMMER CAMP

By Emma Jones

I had never been to a summer camp before, so when my parents signed me up, I didn't know what to expect. At first, I was nervous about spending two weeks away from home, especially since I didn't know anyone else who was going. However, as soon as I arrived, I was greeted by friendly camp leaders and a group of kids who seemed just as excited and curious as I was.

The camp was located near a beautiful lake surrounded by tall trees. Every morning, we had activities planned for us, like kayaking, hiking, and crafting. My favorite part was learning how to kayak on the calm waters of the lake. I was a bit scared at first, but the instructors were patient and made it fun.

At night, we gathered around the campfire to roast marshmallows and tell stories. One night, we were even lucky enough to see shooting stars. The leaders also taught us about nature and how to leave the environment clean for others to enjoy.

I left the camp with new friends, great memories, and some useful skills. It was an amazing experience that taught me to be more independent and confident. I hope to go back next year and try even more activities!
