WATER FOR LIFE

Water covers more than 70% of the Earth's surface. There are many different sources of water, such as oceans, rivers, lakes, _____, springs, and _____. Even about 60% of our human body is made of water; therefore, this source of life is essential for human life, animals, and plants. However, as the world's population increases, more water is needed.

In our daily lives, water is used for showers, _____, dishwashers and many other activities. Nowadays, an average person uses around 150 litres of water a day, while in the past, people used much less than us, around 25 litres a day. As well as in our homes, water is used in industry and _____. The clothing industry, for example, uses 20,000 litres of water for just one kilo of cotton (a T-shirt and a pair of jeans). In agriculture, 70% of the world's _____ supply is used for _____ (although the percentage does vary from country to country).

High-income countries use a lot of water, whereas low-income ones use far less. Some countries have plenty of water due to high levels of _____; other countries don't have enough water due to little or no rainfall, and this leads to _____. Where water is scarce, governments are building _____ so that _____ can be made into _____.
