OPINION ESSAY

Should Students Use Smartphones in Class?

Nowadays, many students _____ their smartphones to school, and some even _____ them during lessons. This has caused a debate among teachers, parents, and students. In my opinion, smartphones _____ only be allowed in class for educational purposes.

Firstly, smartphones _____ be a useful tool for learning because they _____ students access to a lot of information. For example, if a student doesn't _____ something, they can quickly _____ for answers online. As a result, they can _____ their knowledge and _____ engaged in the lesson.

However, smartphones can also ____ very distracting. Many students use them to _____ social media or _____ games instead of paying attention. Because of this, their academic performance can suffer, and they might miss important information.

Additionally, excessive smartphone _____ can cause poor communication skills. Students may prefer to _____ their friends instead of speaking to their classmates. As a result, they could struggle with teamwork and building real-life relationships.

In conclusion, smartphones _____ be helpful in the classroom, but only if they are used responsibly. Teachers should set clear rules to _____ sure students use their devices for learning and not for distractions.
