CREATURES OF MYTH

Planet earth is home to many different creatures: some real and others not so real. Some live in our imagination. We call them mythological creatures. Meet Cerberus, the three headed dog, one of 1 (scary) creatures in mythology. This 2 (fierce) monster was the guard of the underworld. It prevented the dead from leaving.

Another creature of myth is the unicorn: this one is 3 (lovely) and 4 (graceful) than the Cerberus. It is often depicted as a white horse with a single horn. Another creature of fiction is the mermaid. It's a hybrid between a woman and a fish. It's one of 5 (beautiful) figures but also 6 (deadly). Legends say that she enchants the sailors with her beauty and 7 (melodious) voice only to let them drown afterwards.

The following legendary creature is the Phoenix. This 8 (exceptional) being can live a very long time but it must die many times and be born again and again. It is said that it dies and is reborn in 9 (spectacular) show of flames you can imagine. It symbolises renewal, the sun and time.

Have you ever heard of a faun? No? It's also a hybrid creature, this time half man and half goat. They can be 10 (charming) than the other creatures mentioned before. They play the flute to enchant humans and they love the woods.

And what is a Yeti? Even today scientists are looking for 11 (elusive) humanoid of all the cultures of the world. In Nepal, "Yeti" means Abominable Snowman. It's 12 (tall) than a human and supposedly lives in the Himalayas. Scientists are still trying to prove its existence. In 2007 huge footprints were found in Nepal and in 2009 a hair sample contained unknown DNA.
