

Song Who I am (Celine Dion version)

I've been closing the door All my life, held it in, but not anymore
Got two feet on the floor
This is it I'm stronger than ever before *Pardon my imposition
*But this is my conviction I need to get this off my mind
I gotta be me Gotta be I Gotta be who I know I am inside

Can finally breathe, taking it in, look at me flying!
It's always been there,
it just took me a minute to find it If I were to be anybody else, I'd just be hiding Who I am
Who I am Lookin' back, back on a little boy Never gave him a chance to ever be more

I didn't love him, but I'm gonna love him right now and forever It's time to push open the door

Repeat *
Ain't nothing left to hold me down, no

Repeat **
Oh, I
Oh-oh-oh-oh

Repeat **

For real

Housewife vs. Working-mom

- Student A: You have a friend who dropped out of college to get married and be a housewife. You understand her choice and think that it's better for kids to be raised at home by their mothers.
- Student B: You disagree. Although you respect this friend's choice, you think that it's possible to be a working-mom as long as the husband helps a lot.

Parts of speech

The sequence of your topics is key to the success of your speech. You must always remember what your general theme is and go back to it. As you talk about more specific aspects of the theme you initially chose, it is sometimes easy to get sidetracked and lose focus; this will surely compromise the quality of your speech. Try to approach each specific aspect of your theme as a way to support your main theme.

Debate

It's normal for the husband to make more money than the wife. The other way around is strange because the responsibility of supporting a family usually falls on men.
