

HOW TO WRITE A GOOD BOOK BLURB: SOME TIPS.

summarize the book

sell the book

catch readers' attention

give details

give away the ending

promote a book

1. What is the purpose of a book blurb?

Choose the ones that are incorrect.

THE LOST WORLD

'You said that you wanted danger, didn't you?' says McArdle, the editor of the Daily Gazette. And he sends his young reporter, Malone, on a strange journey into South America with the famous Professor Challenger.

Challenger believes that he can find a lost world full of strange-looking dinosaurs in the middle of the Amazon Forest. But this world is dangerous to reach, and, once the Professor and his small group of explorers arrive, things get even more dangerous for them.

Will they return alive?

2. Add DO or DON'T to the tips.

_____: Summarize the whole story. You want the buyer to know just enough to realise they will enjoy the story, but not too much that you've told them the story so now they don't need to.

_____: Introduce your main characters: For your readers to care, they need to be intrigued not only by the story, but also by the characters.

_____: Use a cliffhanger: The aim of your blurb is to leave readers curious and wanting more - so much so, that they would actually buy the book.

_____: Use hyperbole and adjectives: Words like "never before", "incredible", "unimaginable" and "unbelievable" are powerful tools to spark curiosity.

_____: Use a formula: Most fiction book blurbs start with a situation (a), introduce a problem (b) and promise a twist (c). They usually end with a sentence that emphasizes the mood (d) of the story.

→ Look at the blurb for THE LOST WORLD and identify the a) situation b) problem and c) twist.

3. Some of the adjectives in this blurb are missing. Complete the blurb.

mysterious awe-inspiring miserable tiny nerve-wrecking mind-boggling
