We use get + someone + to +infinitive when we ask or tell somebody to do something. We use this in any context (not just people we have power over). It is informal.

We always say who did the action with this structure.

We got our teacher to explain the grammar again.

I'll get my husband to pick you up from the station.

Exercise. Rewrite the sentences using the structure get + someone + to +infinitive .

1. Susan is angry at Larry because she didn't convince him to take her to the movies.

   Susan didn't get Larry to take her to the movies.

2. Joe persuaded Carol to get married with him.

3. Laura persuaded Mark to return the books to the library

4. Lana asked many times until Jorge agreed to cook dinner.

5. Marion persuaded her dad to do a research for her.

6. Jill convinced her daughter to help out in the kitchen.
