

Vocabulary training

Socializing

Match each question to its correct answer from the options provided.

1. Why did you admit that you were wrong? _____
2. Why do you think their project turned out better than ours? _____
3. What do you do when people underestimate you? _____
4. Why did you apologize to Mark today? _____
5. Did he manage to persuade you to join the debate club? _____
6. Can you predict how this situation will turn out? _____
7. How did you manage to improve your writing skills so quickly? _____
8. Why do people often take their families for granted? _____
9. Do you think it's easy to establish a new habit and stick to it? _____
10. How did you avoid getting involved in their argument? _____
11. Do you think Sam will take revenge after what happened? _____
12. Why do people make a fuss over little things? _____
13. How did you find out the truth about them? _____
14. Why do you think he's being so prejudiced against her? _____
15. Was it hard for you to make amends after your mistake? _____

- a) Yes, it took a while, but I finally managed to fix things.
- b) They managed to think outside the box and solve the problem in a creative way.
- c) I overheard a conversation that made everything clear.
- d) I hope not, but he looked really angry, so I wouldn't be surprised.
- e) Probably because they overreact instead of staying calm.
- f) I think he believes in stereotypes instead of seeing people as individuals.
- g) It's hard to predict exactly, but based on past experiences, I have a good idea of what will happen.
- h) No, it's really difficult—you have to be consistent and keep reminding yourself.
- i) Yes, he was very convincing, and I eventually agreed to join.
- j) Because they assume their loved ones will always be there, so they stop appreciating them.
- k) I use that as motivation to achieve success and prove them wrong.
- l) I avoided it by staying quiet and not taking sides.
- m) I wanted to make amends because I realized I had been too harsh.
- n) I practiced a lot and asked for feedback from my tutor.
- o) I thought it was better to admit my mistake instead of pretending I was right.

