

Thai Puppet: The Science Art of Performance

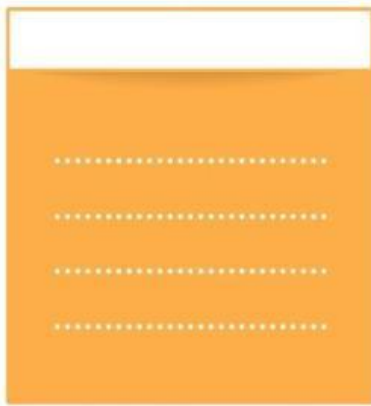

Using the information provided, create a mind map that organizes the key elements of Thai puppetry. Start with the central concept "Thai Puppetry" and branch out into the following categories: Types of Puppets, Historical Background, Key Features, Performance Elements, and Cultural Significance. Fill in the blanks in the mind map with the correct details.

Historical Background

Originated during the reign of ____ in the Ayutthaya period.

Evidence found in mural paintings from the reign of ____.

Developed further during the reign of ____ with the creation of Hun Lek.

Key Features

.....
.....
.....
.....

Puppets are made of ____ or bamboo.

.....
.....
.....
.....

Costumes resemble ____ and ____ performances.

.....
.....
.....
.....

Controlled by ____ or strings for realistic human-like movements.

Performance Elements

The image shows three vertical rectangular boxes, each designed to look like a notepad with a circular fastener at the top. The boxes are colored green, blue, and teal from left to right. Each box contains several horizontal dotted lines for writing. Above each box is a small circle of the same color, connected to the box by a vertical line, and a larger dotted line extends horizontally across the top of the three boxes.

Requires expertise in ____ and ____.

Stories often derived from ____ and ____

Puppeteers must synchronize movements with ____ and ____.

Combines various Thai arts such as _____ and _____.

Preserves traditional Thai culture and _____.

Evidence of craftsmanship seen in temples like _____ and _____.

Red shield-shaped box with a white border and four horizontal dotted lines for writing.

Green shield-shaped box with a white border and four horizontal dotted lines for writing.

Orange shield-shaped box with a white border and four horizontal dotted lines for writing.

Cultural Significance