Task 3: Read the passage below and choose the correct answer.

Are You an Introvert or an Extrovert?

People have different personalities. Some feel comfortable in quiet places, while others enjoy being surrounded by people. Psychologists often classify people into two main personality types: introverts and extroverts.

Introverts enjoy spending time alone or in small groups. They prefer quiet environments and deep conversations rather than large social events. They often need time alone to regain energy. Activities like reading, writing, and walking alone help them feel relaxed.

In contrast, extroverts love being around people. They feel more energetic when they socialize and participate in group activities. Extroverts enjoy large gatherings, making new friends, and talking with others. Instead of spending time alone, they prefer sharing experiences with people.

However, not everyone is fully introverted or extroverted. Some people have a balance of both personalities. These individuals are called ambiverts. They enjoy social activities but also appreciate quiet moments alone.

1. What do introverts usually prefer?
