Questions 1-5

A new hearing device uses a magnet to hold the detachable sound-processing portion in place. Like other aids, it converts sound into vibrations, but it is unique in that it can transmit the vibrations directly to the magnet and then to the inner ear. This produces a clearer sound. The new device will not help all hearing-impaired people—only those with a hearing loss caused by infection or some other problem in the middle ear. It will probably help no more than 20 percent of all people with hearing problems. Those people who have persistent ear infections, however, should find relief and restored hearing with the new device.

1. Explain how the new hearing device works in helping people with hearing impairments.
2. What makes this hearing device different from other hearing aids?
3. Why can this device only help a small percentage of people with hearing problems? Does the writer have a positive or negative opinion about the device?
4. Who are the people that can benefit the most from this device? Explain your answer.
5. In your opinion, how will this device impact the daily lives of people suffering from ear infections that cause hearing loss? Provide an explanation.
