Emma's First Camping Trip

Emma had always loved adventure stories, but she had never been on a real outdoor trip before. This summer, her parents decided to take her and her younger brother, Tom, on a camping trip to the mountains.

At first, Emma was excited. She imagined herself exploring the forest, swimming in a clear mountain lake, and sitting by a warm campfire. However, when they arrived at the campsite, she realized that camping was not as easy as she had expected.

Setting up the tent took longer than she thought. The ground was uneven, and it was difficult to put the tent pegs into the soil. When the tent was finally up, she wanted to take a swim, but the water was freezing cold. At night, she heard strange noises outside the tent and couldn't sleep.

The next morning, her father taught her how to make a fire. At first, she struggled, but after several tries, she managed to get a small flame going. That evening, they roasted marshmallows, and Emma told stories to her brother.

By the end of the trip, Emma felt proud of herself. She had learned how to start a fire, cook food outdoors, and even find her way through the forest. She realized that even though camping was difficult, it was also a lot of fun.

A. Why was Emma excited before the trip?

1. She wanted to meet new people.
2. She loved spending time in the city.
3. She had never been camping before.
4. She was looking forward to shopping.

B. What problem did Emma face when setting up the tent?

1. She lost the tent pegs.
2. The ground was too hard.
3. It was too windy.
4. The tent was broken.

C. Why didn't Emma swim in the lake?

1. She didn't like the temperature of the water.
2. There were animals in the water.
3. It was too windy.
4. She couldn't swim.

D. What did Emma struggle with in the morning?

1. Finding food.
2. Swimming in the lake.
3. Making a fire.
4. Carrying her backpack.

D. How did Emma feel at the end of the trip?

1. Nervous.
2. Tired.
3. Unhappy.
4. Proud.

A Visit to the Zoo

Last weekend, my class went on a trip to the zoo. It was an _____ (A) experience because I had never seen so many animals before.

One of the first animals we saw was a group of monkeys. They were very _____ (B), jumping from branch to branch. We also visited the lions' enclosure. The lions were _____ (C) when we arrived, but suddenly, one of them stood up and roared loudly!

I learned a lot of interesting facts. Did you know that giraffes are the _____ (D) land animals on Earth? I was also surprised to learn that penguins live in both cold and warm places!

At the end of the trip, we went to the gift shop. I bought a small toy elephant because elephants are my _____ (E) animals.
