"The Beginning of My Business"

Three years ago, I started my own business. At first, I worked from home and designed lamps in my small workshop. I made different models and tested new materials. It was difficult because I didn't have many customers.

In the first few months, I sold only a few lamps, but I didn't give up. I advertised on social media and talked to many people about my products. Finally, I found my first big client, a small shop that bought ten lamps from me.

After one year, my business grew. I rented a small studio and hired one assistant. We worked every day, and I learned a lot about sales and marketing. Now, I sell lamps all over the country!
