Mark is a fourteen-year-old boy. He lives with his sister Marian and his father John. Their house is big and comfortable. They have a garden, a kitchen, three bedrooms, and a living room. Every day, they have different chores to do at home.

Mark wakes up at seven o'clock. He does not like to wake up early, but he always makes his bed before going to the bathroom. Marian wakes up at half past six. She likes to have a quiet morning. She takes a shower, gets dressed, and makes a cup of tea. John, their father, wakes up at seven thirty. He does not drink tea, but he drinks coffee every morning.

After breakfast, Mark helps with the dishes. He dries the dishes and puts them in the cupboard. Marian washes up because she likes to keep the kitchen clean. John does not wash the dishes, but he takes out the rubbish. He does it every morning. He also waters the plants in the garden and feeds the cat.

After school, Mark does his homework. He does not like math, but he studies every day. Marian studies too because she is a university student. She does not study at home; she goes to the library. John works in an office, but he comes home at five o'clock.

In the afternoon, Mark tidies his room. He does not like cleaning, but he does it every day. Marian helps with cooking. She makes delicious food. She does not make desserts, but she prepares pasta, rice, and vegetables. John does not cook, but he sets the table for dinner.

After dinner, Mark helps his sister. He does not like washing up, but he dries the dishes again. Marian hangs out the clothes. She does not fold them immediately, but she puts them in the basket. John relaxes in the living room. He does not watch TV, but he reads a book. He also locks the doors and checks the windows before going to bed.

At the end of the day, Mark is tired, but he is happy. Marian is happy too because the house is clean. John is proud of his children. They help at home, and they work together. They all go to their rooms, ready to sleep and recharge for another busy day tomorrow.
